Human Factors in Good Service

There are three parties to every telephone conversation—the party calling, the trained operator, and the party who answers. All three share alike the responsibility for quick and accurate telephone service.

The calling party should give the correct number in a distinct voice, speaking directly into the transmitter, and wait at the telephone until the party answers or the operator reports. The called party should answer promptly.

Patience on the part of the telephone user and the telephone operator is also essential to good service.

GERMANS FALL INTO TRAP.

French Scarcely Lure Entire Regiment to Death.

Paris, Oct. 6.—There is a report here that a French force in Alsace annihilated the One Hundred and Forty Baden Regiment by means of a remarkable ruse successfully worked in a dense fog.

Between Altkrich and Waldhofen a considerable French force discovered the nearness of the Baden Regiment. The fog was so thick that it was practically impossible to distinguish figures more than twenty feet distant.

Hurriedly procuring many sticks and boughs the French carried these to an open field, where they stuck them into the earth. The French placed their caps on the sticks. From a few feet away in the fog the capped sticks resembled troops blundering and helpless. The French immediately ambushed themselves along the roads leading to the field.

Meanwhile they sent a small force to lure the Germans to the trap of sticks and caps. Slowly the real French soldiers fell back until the Germans, vaguely seeing the make-believe soldiers, cheered and charged wildly.

The French waited until they were completely in the trap then opened fire from three sides. The German regiment was cut to pieces. Hardly a man escaped.
